ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

INSPECTORS OF STATE PRISONS

OF THE

STATE OF NEW YORK.

TRANSMITTED TO THE LEGISLATURE JANUARY 31, 1865.

ALBANY:

CHARLES VAN BENTHUYSEN, PRINTER.

1865.

The chief officers of the prison are :

Thomas E. Sutton, agent and warden.

Henry A. Reeves, clerk.

Daniel K. Sherwood, principal keeper.

Peter Pryne, physician and surgeon.

Rev. John Luckey, chaplain.

THE FEMALE DEPARTMENT

Is under the charge of Mrs. Catharine M. Logan, as chief matron, and her mode of discipline is eminently satisfactory and successful. There were remaining on the 30th of September 158 female convicts. There are also six children, mostly under one year of age.

The contracts for labor are :

Moulding, at 18 cents per day, and chair bottoming, at 22½ cents per day.

The Inspectors have made every effort to let contracts for labor, and to obtain employment for the female convicts, yet many of the women remain idle. The increase of numbers in this department is larger than ever before known; the prison is full to overflowing, and the Inspectors recommend that the Legislature make provision for the imprisonment of female convicts from the western part of the State in some suitable institution in that section.

The conditions and operations of the Sing Sing Prison, in both departments, in respect to finances, discipline, hospital, tuition and other matters, are fully set forth in the accompanying reports of the several officers.

AUBURN PRISON.

The cash collections at this prison for the year have exceeded the expenditures. The chief contracts have been re-let at satisfactory rates after vigorous competition, and if the era of high prices for food, clothing and all articles of prison supplies shall soon pass away, "a consummation devoutly to be wished," the prison will in the future, as in a portion of the past, show an annual surplus of actual collections over expenditures.

There were remaining on September 30th 550 convicts. The lines of manufacture are :

• Agricultural and machine contract.

Blanket and cloth contract.

Boot and shoe contract.

Cabinet contract.

Cooper contract.

Tool and skate contract.

Saddlery hardware contract.

The lowest price for labor is 40 cents per day, (contract let two years ago;) the highest price is $1.01 per day.

The chief officers of the prison are :

David B. McNeil, agent and warden.

Hiram Whiting, clerk.

Eli Gallup, principal keeper.

James D. Button, physician and surgeon.

Rev. David A. Shephard, chaplain.

CLINTON PRISON.

The financial condition of this prison compares favorably with any year of its past history—although for the reasons before referred to, and so apparent to the entire community, the expenditures have been, as is the case at the other prisons, larger than usual. The chief business at the prison is the manufacture of iron. There is also a boot and shoe contract.

The number of convicts on the 30th of September were 340.

The labor on iron has yielded 50 cents per day the past year, and has recently been re-let at 65 cents per day for four months, expiring April 1, 1865.

The labor on boot and shoe contract, made four years ago, yields 36 cents per day.

The future of this prison is a matter of some interest and solicitude. The prison is situate 16 miles from Plattsburgh by plank road; four miles of this road is maintained entirely by the State. The outlay for pickets to enclose the prison grounds is also an item of annual expense to the State.

It is quite apparent that the location of the prison forbids the expectation that it will ever earn its expenses. It is in a wild and mountainous region of country. There has been an entire absence of competition for contracts for convict labor, although the Inspectors have extensively advertised for proposals in various branches of manufactures in wood, metals and leather.

It has been suggested that in the absence of any reasonable demand for convict labor at this prison, provision be made by the Legislature for laying in ore, wood and coal, to the end that the labor be employed in manufacturing iron for the State. It is believed that in this way the cash receipts will be quite as large as usual, and the expenditures certainly no larger. Certain it is, that if there be no demand for the labor on contract at remunerative prices, that labor must be employed as here suggested or the prison will be much embarrassed, and yet its location for health and for recuperation, and the purposes of discipline, is as favorable as could be wished.

It is well understood that public sentiment is averse to having convict labor employed by the State on branches competing with citizen labor, and the suggestion is here made only as an exception in the case of Clinton prison under the circumstances stated.

The chief officers of the prison are :

John Parkhurst, agent and warden.

John C. Lewis, clerk.

Charles Richardson, principal keeper.

Joseph H. Smith, physician and surgeon.

Rev. J. A. Canfield, chaplain.

THE SYSTEM OF CONTRACT LABOR.

The effect of the present system (which is in strict accordance with the law) upon the reformatory and moral discipline of the prisons, has been considerably discussed of late years. It is a matter of humanity to have convicts diligently employed, for idleness is the source of great evils.

The system of labor advocated by the opponents of the present system would require that materials of various kinds be provided by the State, and that convict labor should be employed in the manufacture of such materials, and that the manufactured articles be sold for account of the State. Financially, it is doubtful if this plan could succeed, and as has been stated, public sentiment in the manufacturing interests seems to be against it. The plan has its advocates solely upon "high moral grounds." It is a question upon which honest differences of opinion may be entertained; and no facts have been advanced by its advocates to show that any system of labor in the prisons of other States, different from the system in this State, has produced any better moral results.

THE PRISON SYSTEM IN THIS STATE.

The system in this State has been in operation many years, and while it has its defects it also has its merits.

It is safe to say that a convict in prison, who by good behavior and diligence wins the regard of officers and employers, will generally go from the prison a reformed man. While on the other hand, a convict who is neither diligent nor obedient, and who does not control his temper or passion in the prison, will not go out reformed to any great degree.

In respect to reformation the statistics (which of course cannot be always accurate) do not show that any large proportion of convicts return to prison. There are tables on that subject attached to this report; it is safe to believe that the greater number do never return—the one lesson that they learn is sufficient for a life time. “Order and discipline at a prison constitute the greatest humanity.”

If kind treatment and good counsel fail to secure obedience (as they will fail with some natures), resort must be had to physical coercion and restraint. Some men seem to be so constituted that they will at times yield to no other influences. The “golden mean” is perhaps best attained when moral suasion and physical correction go together.

The punishments at a prison are mostly dark cell with bread and water for one day or longer, according to the degree of offence and stubbornness of the offender—also the shower bath and yoke.

The necessity for any punishment is always to be regretted. The Inspectors, as public officers, must, however, speak of these matters as “existing facts.”

The Rev. John Luckey, for many years past and now the excellent chaplain of Sing Sing Prison, in his report for the year 1856, says:

“I am prepared to say that at least two-thirds of our convicts go out from under the judicious regulations and efficient system with genuine purposes of reform, and succeed more or less completely in carrying out those purposes. The chaplain’s labors are comparatively useless unaided by a firm, vigilant, uniform discipline, the aid of which I heartily acknowledge; and had the discipline generally, as it has frequently, been made to address itself with equal vigor to the moral as it has to the physical feelings of its subjects, it would have been still more efficient in its aid to the chaplaincy, ‘for a soft answer turneth away wrath’ as certainly as ‘withholding the rod spoileth the child.’”

Rev. Roswell Pettibone, the well known and esteemed (and lately deceased) chaplain of Clinton Prison, in his report for the year 1859, says:

“The convicts regard it as an unfavorable time to become pious in prison, and like other sinners wait a more convenient season.”

In his report for the year 1860 he says:

“The discipline may be improved and is gradually improving, but it is by no means to be conceded that our present discipline as now administered is not reformatory! On this subject let those speak who have labored for years in our prisons for the present and future welfare of the imprisoned, and who can speak advisedly from experience, and they will testify to the elevating and reforming influence of our prison discipline. Their testimony should be regarded as far more weighty and convincing than that of the mere casual observer.”

Theorists and moralists, until they have practical experience, will hold other views; but close contact and daily realization soon demonstrate which is the true and which the false system.

All just effort is due for the reformation of convicts; yet public sentiment also demands that the criminal shall do some penance for his crime. Much praise is due the philanthropist for every discreet effort to ameliorate the penance of the criminal, and to lead him “in the way he should go;” yet it is well to remember that there are in our very midst, and at all times, many thousands of suffering humanity (a large portion of whom are of the female sex) who are not criminals, but whose daily life is misery and want. It is here that the helping hand can be extended, and it is in such cases that relief, sympathy and practical humanity may save many from the very jaws of crime and from the felon’s fate.

In this respect society has a great duty to perform—a duty too largely neglected—and a duty that if well and thoroughly performed would reduce the proportions of all criminal statistics and records of crime.

HOSPITAL DEPARTMENT.

The hospitals at Auburn and Clinton are roomy and commodious; the hospital at Sing Sing is contracted and unsuited to the necessities of that prison.

At the time of enlarging Sing Sing prison several years ago, which enlargement was not under the Inspectors’ control, while the cells were increased to the total number of 1,200, no increased accommodations were prepared for chapel, mess room or hospital; the two former will comfortably contain about 800 men, while the hospital will not at times accommodate all that require hospital treatment.

It is an agreeable duty to announce that very general good health has prevailed in all the prisons, and that they have been quite free from diseases, especially those considered infectious or contagious. We acknowledge a kind Providence in the preservation of health, and we accord a just meed of praise to the proper officers for that cleanliness, which should be a conspicuous feature in prison.

LAW SUITS.

The prisons are almost free from litigation. Two suits are pending at Sing Sing against delinquent contractors; no progress has been made in them the past year. One suit is pending against that prison arising out of transactions happening twenty-five years ago. It appears that Jeremiah Chechester, holding a cooper contract, brought suit against the prison agent in 1840 for damages for non-performance; judgment for over $20,000 was awarded in Chechester's favor; the Supreme Court affirmed the judgment and the Court of Errors reversed it in 1842-3. The case was again on trial in 1846, when the plaintiff died, and in 1863 his administrator obtained leave of the court to revive and continue the action, which is now on trial before Judge Gould, of Troy, as sole referee.

The Inspectors have had no alternative but to defend the action, which they have done through John B. Haskins, Esq., and ex-Judge Edmonds. The events transpired at a date so remote that it is difficult to get living witnesses or actual facts.

The four law suits at Clinton for demands against the Messrs. Kingsland and their sureties and endorsers have not been decided, although the Inspectors learn through their counsel, Judge Hand, that the cases have long since been submitted to Judge Paige, of Schenectady, as sole referee, for his decision.

Two old law suits in favor of Auburn prison, involving small amounts, have remained so long dormant that nothing can be reported concerning them.

MORAL INSTRUCTION AND TEACHING.

The reports of the chaplains and teachers present a gratifying view of the condition of these branches. The Sabbath schools at Auburn and Clinton, and in the female department at Sing Sing, and the chapel service at all the prisons, together with the instruction in ordinary branches of education, afford to all the convicts opportunities for mental and moral improvement far better than many of those enjoyed out of prison. The Inspectors bear testimony to faithfulness and assiduity on the part of those in charge of these branches, and acknowledge the kind services of citizens and theological students at Auburn, and of officers at Clinton, and in the female department at Sing Sing, in the Sabbath schools.

THE COMMUTATION LAW.

The results and effect of this law are very generally approved. The system of rewards which it inaugurated, reducing the term of a convict's sentence according to his good behavior, has tended to improve the conduct of the convicts, to make them more orderly and obedient and careful to regard the rules. The law has been highly spoken of in previous reports and by other officers. Its final amendment by the Legislature of 1864 and its more extended application are primarily due to his Excellency Governor Seymour, who manifested a most humane interest in the subject and gave it the weight and sanction of his position.

The Inspectors refer to their report of last year and to previous reports for many suggestions in reference to prisons and the improvement thereof which have been made and repeated from time to time.

The following extract from last year's report is inserted here as a brief and comprehensive summary of the relation the convict and the prison bear to each other :

"The convict, when received into prison, should be instructed faithfully as to the rules of the institution, what will be required of him, and assured that if he obeys implicitly he will be treated kindly ; he should be made to understand that the imprisonment of a violator of law is just and necessary, but if he conducts himself well he will be encouraged in the belief that there is a bright future before him when he shall be restored to freedom and society.

"We are happy to know that there is great progress being made in the right direction in the management of our prisons, more in accordance with the genius of our institutions and the dictates of humanity and Christian philanthropy."

With these ends always in view, and with a good class of prison officers which, with some exceptions, we have been fortunate in securing, the Inspectors submit the prisons of the State, their management, discipline and operations, to the judgment of an intelligent and discriminating public.

THE STATE ASYLUM FOR INSANE CONVICTS.

This institution is located at Auburn, on grounds adjacent to the prison, but it is separated therefrom by a high stone wall. The asylum is in the charge of Dr. Charles E. Van Anden, as medical superintendent, with Mr. J. W. Wright as assistant.

The report of Dr. Van Anden is referred to for full details of expenditures, inmates and other information, as well as for useful and very forcible suggestions in reference to the objects for which the asylum was established, and for extending its sphere of usefulness, in all which suggestions the Inspectors most heartily concur. And in view of the large number of lunatics at the Utica asylum, of the limited accommodations of the Auburn asylum (which is exclusively for convicts), and of the scarcity of accommodation throughout the State for the insane, it is fervently hoped that the "charity of the State," which is a most high and holy duty to those "bereft of reason," and which is as yet applied upon a very limited scale compared with the necessity, will be organized, extended and applied without delay. At no time has it been more needed than now.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

DOCUMENTS

ACCOMPANYING THE ANNUAL REPORT OF THE INSPECTORS OF STATE PRISONS.

SING SING PRISON.

AGENT AND WARDEN'S REPORT.

To the Hon. the Inspectors of State Prisons of the State of New York:

Gentlemen—In accordance with custom and in conformity to law, I herewith present you a report of the financial and other transactions of the male and female prisons at Sing Sing, for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1864.

While the receipts of the two prisons are but about $387.62 less than last year, the average number of male convicts has been considerably less, and the number of female convicts (more than two-thirds of whom are non-productive) has been greatly increased. This, together with the enhanced prices of every article used in and about these prisons, will, I hope, satisfactorily account to you, gentlemen, and the public generally, for the excess of expenditures over receipts.

The financial transactions of the male department of this prison for the year ending September 30th, 1864, were as follows:

Contract earnings.....	$64,990 96
Miscellaneous earnings	35,449 17
Total earnings.....	$100,440 13
Expended for ordinary support.....	$97,288 84
do salaries of officers.....	50,326 90
do building and repairs	7,186 35
Total expenditures	$154,802 09
Total earnings.....	100,440 13
Expenditures over earnings.....	$54,361 96
Balance on hand September 30, 1863.....	$2,166 07
Treasurer's drafts for the year.....	152,649 30
Vouchers of J. B. Holmes returned	175 00
Total expenditures.....	$154,990 37
Balance on hand September 30, 1864.....	$188 28

Receipts and deposits in Westchester County Bank to the credit of the State Treasurer during the year $107,136 47

The further sum of $1,161.65 was received subsequent to the last deposit and before the close of the fiscal year on September 30, 1864, which will appear in the report for 1865. If this amount were credited to 1864, as it strictly should be, the total receipts would be $108,298.12.

The financial transactions of the female department for the same year were as follows:

Contract earnings	$2,637 02
Miscellaneous earnings.....	850 34
Total earnings	$3,487 36
Expended for ordinary support.....	$14,971 83
do salaries of officers.....	6,065 29
do buildings and repairs.....	801 75
Total expenditures	$21,838 87
Total earnings.....	3,487 36
Expenditures over earnings.....	$18,351 51
Balance on hand September 30, 1863.....	$162 67
Treasurer's drafts for the year.....	21,759 26
Total expenditures	$21,921 93
Balance on hand September 30, 1864.....	$83 06
Receipts and deposits in Westchester County Bank to the credit of the State Treasurer during the year	$3,314 58

For further information in relation to these subjects, please refer to the tables accompanying this report.

There has been raised by convict labor, upon the grounds belonging to the State:

6,680 heads of cabbage, worth 10 cents per head.....	$668 00
80 bushels onions, at $2.50 per bushel.....	200 00
75 do bushels beets, at $1.40 per bushel.....	105 00
153½ bushels carrots, at $1 per bushel.....	153 50
80 bushels turnips, at 30 cents per bushel.....	24 00
16 tons of hay, at $30 per ton.....	480 00
	$1,630 50
There has been raised and fattened at the prison 17,520 lbs. of pork, worth $18 per 100	3,153 60
Total	$4,784 10

In addition a large amount of labor (amounting during the year to 5,472 days work, at 50 cents per day, or $2,736,) has been expended in building walls, repairing walks, and improving the prison grounds. The ox teams have been almost constantly employed on the roads and in the quarries, and masons and laborers are daily employed making the necessary repairs to the prison, shops and outbuildings. The building at north end of prison has been taken down in order to render a greater security in case of fire, and afford a better ventilation to the prison.

In February last the whole of the under part of the agent's house was destroyed by fire. This has been thoroughly repaired, and a new and substantial addition, in the shape of dining room, kitchen, bathing room, &c., with all the necessary fixtures, added thereto. The house itself has been thoroughly painted and repaired throughout, and many improvements made therein.

A patent rotary oven, capable of baking for 1,200 people daily, has been erected on the premises, and will, I have no doubt, be the means of affording better bread, from the same material, than we have been in the habit of using.

The main guard house, originally a one story building, has had another story added to it, and has been entirely refitted, painted and furnished. The old fashioned muskets, so many years in use, have been sent away, and the armory now contains 80 new Springfield rifles, 62 carbines and a number of Colt's navy revolvers, together with a sufficient quantity of ammunition, making it as it now stands, not only useful but ornamental.

A new and commodious office (an improvement long needed) has been handsomely fitted up for the use of the chaplain and library; the hospital and chapel have been neatly painted and varnished; and many other repairs made in and about the premises, all of which, in consequence of the increased prices of material, has added largely to the expenditures.

Another addition to our expenses, and one much needed for the services rendered, took effect on the 1st of May last. I refer to the increased pay of the officers of this institution, passed by the Legislature of 1864, amounting, with the present small number of officers, to about $800 per month.

In consequence of the great decrease in the number of convicts, and the small number of stone cutters at work in the quarry, the work done for the female prison enlargement has been comparatively small, amounting to 564 pieces of stone, or 2,762 square feet. The large number of female convicts (158) now in the prison, and the limited accommodation for their safe keeping, the prison containing but 108 cells, make the duties of the principal matron and her assistants extremely arduous. Too much credit cannot be awarded to the principal of that establishment for her constant supervision of the health and discipline of those intrusted to her care.

The quarry at this prison is, in my opinion, a constant drain on its treasury, for although a considerable quantity of stone, for fluxing and other purposes, has been sold at advanced prices during the past year, the number of men required to get it out, together with the increased cost of powder, fuse and the necessary tools, more than exceeds its receipts. Were it entirely closed, I think the State would be the gainer by the operation.

On the first of August last the burning of lime at this prison was discontinued. This contract has been for a number of years in the hands of W. M. Sands & Son, and after a close calculation, I fully agree with the opinion of my predecessors that it should have been discontinued long ago.

While every branch of mechanical labor outside of the prisons has been so well paid for during the past year, we are, with a trifling exception, receiving the same compensation for men under contract as was paid when all articles used in and about the premises were sold at much lower prices than at present.

To some of the readers of this report it may appear strange that no more men are put on contract and made to help pay their expenses. The answer to this is simple and easily explained. A large proportion of those sent to Sing Sing, although to outward appearance fit for work, are found to be, on examination, troubled with "all the ills that flesh is heir to," and are consequently put on State work, which means, in most cases, to do nothing but recruit their health. This cannot well be avoided, and is one of the evils attendant upon prisons when situated within a few miles of such populous cities as New York and Brooklyn.

The practice of sending boys to State prisons, especially those under 18 years of age, should, I think, be discontinued; for notwithstanding the efforts constantly made by the good and benevolent of both sexes, it is a poor school to improve the morals of the young offender, and he invariably leaves the institution with a far greater knowledge of crime, in all its phases, than he ever had an idea of. We have now nine boys under 18 years of age and thirty over 18 and under 21. This certainly deserves the consideration of our Legislature, and I sincerely trust they will, at their next session, give it their earnest attention.

At the time of the passage of the new commutation law, April 23d, 1864, there were confined in these prisons 1,096 convicts, 847 of whom were males and 149 females. From May 27 to September 30 inclusive, we have discharged under this law 124 males and 20 females, none of whom have as yet returned to their old quarters. This is, I think, one of the best laws ever passed by any of our Legislatures, and one I am satisfied that will do more towards reforming those sent to our State prisons than anything that has yet been attempted. From practical experience I am satisfied that the time allowed for good behavior under this law has had much to do with the present good discipline of these prisons, and there are none convicted of crime, be they ever so bad, but look forward with hope to the benefits of this wise and humane law, and during the short time it has been in operation the punishments for serious offences have been very limited. In an institution of such magnitude as this, and where so many from all parts of the world are confined for crime, punishment of some kind must necessarily be resorted to in order to preserve a proper discipline, without which nothing can be accomplished. In these prisons every punishment, be it ever so trifling, is carefully recorded, thus swelling the appearance of the table when in reality the amount is trifling.

During my sojourn among the inmates of this prison I have endeavored by firm yet kind counsel to instil into their minds the benefits to be derived from a compliance with rules and regulations, always giving them to understand that the officers over them have no voice in sending them here, but are simply for the purpose of taking care of them and preserving the necessary discipline, "peaceably if they can, forcibly if they must."

Between the contractors and myself the utmost harmony exists, and with the exception of my not being at all times enabled to provide them with the necessary number of men for the successful carrying on of the various branches of their business, their wants have been as fully attended to as circumstances would permit.

To the various officers under my charge, one and all, I am under many obligations for the assistance they have at all times rendered me in the performance of my varied duties, an assistance which no man need flatter himself he can do without when managing institutions of a similar kind.

And "last though not least," gentlemen, allow me to thank you, individually and collectively, for the kindness and courtesy you have invariably extended to me since I have been in the charge of these prisons.

With respect, yours truly,

THOMAS E. SUTTON,

Agent and Warden.

CLERK'S REPORT.

AGENT AND WARDEN'S OFFICE, }
SING SING PRISON, September 30, 1864. }

To the Honorable the Inspectors of State Prisons :

Gentlemen—The Clerk of Sing Sing Prison begs leave respectfully to present his annual report for the year ending September 30th, 1864. Having entered upon the discharge of his official duties early in the month of December, 1863, he has depended upon the accounts of his predecessors for that portion of the report which covers the previous months of October and November. The following statement details the number of convicts now in prison, their modes of employment and the number occupied in the several branches of business.

The number of convicts this day in the male department is 683. The branches of business in which they are employed and the number employed in each branch are as follows:

PHYSICIAN'S REPORT.

SING SING PRISON HOSPITAL, }
September 30th, 1864. }

To the Hon. Board of Inspectors of State Prisons :

Gentlemen—During the year ending September 30th, 1864, ten deaths occurred in the male prison, seven of which resulted from diseases of the respiratory organs contracted by the patients before their admission into prison; one from rupture of aneurism of the aorta; one from typhus fever, and one from severe burns of face and body.

In the female prison hospital we had three deaths; two from pulmonary affections and one from disease of the heart, the complaint being in each case in an advanced stage when the individuals were admitted into the prison.

You will perceive that of the number of deaths a very large proportion resulted from diseases of the lungs, that were undoubtedly hastened to their fatal termination by influences connected with the prison which, perhaps, are unavoidable in their nature. The small, close rooms, the almost constant influence of the depressing passions of grief and despondency, added to a predisposition to tubercular maladies, certainly conduce strongly to a failing of health and quickly call forth into activity the germs of disease that under other, more favorable circumstances, would, perhaps, have slumbered for years. Remedies for this state of things (if any) would consist in an improvement of the ventilation and light of the main prison—the rooms, especially on the lower galleries, being often very damp and dark—and in any influence that tends to dispel gloom and produces a happier and more hopeful state of mind. The commutation law in this respect has produced much good, improving the conduct and indirectly the state of the prisoners' health.

But few severe casualties have occurred during the year. One terminated fatally from a burn; another resulted in the loss of a hand, and another, from a severe gunshot wound through the chest, ended finally in recovery, without apparently any serious consequences.

In the months of July and August dysentery and diarrhœa prevailed among the prisoners to a great extent, resulting in considerable loss of time; yet, though some of the cases were very severe and protracted, none terminated in death. In the emergency attendant on this occasion we experienced much the want of proper hospital accommodations, being compelled to occupy the chapel for the use of the patients. I would here suggest that some provisions be made for a similar future contingency in the enlargement and improvement of hospital room.

For the uniform kindness received from you, gentlemen, accept my most grateful thanks.

Yours respectfully,

P. PRYNE, Prison Physician.

Westchester County, ss.

Peter Pryne being duly sworn, says that the foregoing report, by him subscribed, is true to the best of his knowledge, information and belief.

THE CHAPLAIN'S REPORT

OF THE SING SING PRISON, FOR THE YEAR ENDING SEPTEMBER 30TH, 1864.

To the Honorable Board of Inspectors :

Gentlemen—In compliance with both law and custom, I beg leave to present to you this my sixteenth annual report.

In these reports will be found not only a minute account of duties performed, but also suggestions of moral and disciplinary reform; further it will be found that the duties which were at first self imposed were in 1847 incorporated into the statute. The suggestions made were predicated principally of the fact that man, however fallen, is possessed of a moral as well as a physical nature, and hence that all disciplinary punishment, to be reformatory, should address itself to the mind as well as to the body—to the hopes as well as to the fears of the delinquent. I hail with peculiar pleasure, therefore, the recognition of this fundamental principle in the “commutation act” of last year. This is a step in the right direction, an imitation of the Divine economy, revealing hope to erring ones in the darkest hour of gloom and punishment, preventing utter despair, and opening up the way to recuperated manhood and self-respect.

I need not say to you, gentlemen, that the very judicious application of this law, made in both prisons, has proved to be a potent aid to discipline and personal reformation. Many a poor prisoner and his afflicted friends will rise up and call the Governor blessed for the noble part he took in recommending this measure, and pressing it through the Legislature.

May the action of our law makers be progressive in this direction until we shall have a legalized classification of convicts, according to their merit, age and criminal proclivities, until suitable solitary cells shall be erected in which to test sanity and confine the incorrigible—until the Constitution of our State shall be so altered as to exclude party politics from the control of our penal institutions, so that good and suitable judges and prison officers may be retained during life or good behavior. In a word, until moral appliances instead of physical force shall form the criterion of “good discipline.” May He who says, “a soft answer turneth away wrath,” hasten this desirable consummation.

You will pardon me, gentlemen, for saying that I speak advisedly concerning the destructiveness consequent upon the frequent changes in our official corps, as I was chaplain in 1840 when this ruinous practice was inaugurated, and by the forbearance of the appointing power have passed through several such ordeals. When prison officers have gained an experience which qualifies them to sustain and improve the discipline, that supremely selfish doctrine, "to the victor belong the spoils," would displace them to make way for the most available applicants of the victorious party. Then followed a scene long to be remembered, on account of the wholesale condemnation of whatever the other party had wrought, and, for the time being, a death blow to all moral improvement.

I here wish to acknowledge the many valuable suggestions made by the "New York Prison Association" upon these subjects. May they find a permanent lodgment in the public mind.

Every day of my time is fully occupied with prison duties; Sabbath work is the least laborious, notwithstanding we have preaching in both prisons on this day. I superintend the correspondence in each department, reading the letters going out as well as those that come in. In addition to the knowledge of personal and domestic character obtained from this source, still more direct and reliable information is acquired in the two days' visits I make on every third week to the convicts' friends, their prosecutors, the judges and district attorneys who sentenced them, and the discharged convicts, &c. It has been my practice for sixteen years to take notes of such interviews, for the purpose of being able to address our men and women appropriately, and the executive, when permitted, intelligently.

I am reminded in this connection of cases among us in which both justice and mercy demand executive interposition, the peculiarities of whose position can be presented only by prison officials. Take for instance the comparative stranger in our large cities. He is led in an unguarded moment into criminal associations by an adept in rascality, who knows how to make his own escape by misleading the police and betraying his dupe into the hands of the law. The poor fellow's counsel tells him that there is no danger in his case, hence assuming another name he contrives to keep the disgrace of his arrest from the knowledge of his friends. He appears before the court, therefore, friendless, as though he had, by his persistent criminality, outraged all friendship, and is, in consequence, sent here under the severest penalty. This greater disgrace occurring, he determines to die in prison rather than afflict and expose and disgrace his friends. I have known scores of such cases, some of whom have pined away and died, and others have gone stark mad, who, under a less restrictive regime, might have been saved. You, gentlemen, are aware of similar cases now among us. Take the one I had the pleasure of naming to you not long since. The police, the judge, the district attorney, have, they say, become convinced of this young man's innocence or comparative innocence, and that his character was above suspicion previously, and hence that he ought to be released. But how is the Executive to be made acquainted with this case; friends cannot inform him, for they are altogether ignorant of the matter. The judge and district attorney cannot, for, say they, it is customary that the Executive first require it at our hands, the prison officials cannot, as they are restricted by the same rule, so that he must stay here and die. Who will answer to God and his friends for the injustice done?

Allow me to refer the honorable Board to another class of convicts whose condition excites commiseration and demands relief. It consists of those whose appointments and surroundings have always been above those appertaining to the lower walks of life. Being accustomed to move in refined society, they naturally become possessed of cultivated and sensitive natures. Their family connections are of the same character. They are arrested, tried and condemned for their first step in the path of dishonesty, perhaps the victims of untoward circumstances. They are sentenced for five or ten years, and inducted at once into all the paraphernalia of prison life—its striped apparel, its crowded lock-step, its stern discipline, its bolts and bars, its narrow and suffocating cells, &c., with the knowledge that their friends feeling their own disgrace, as well as the sufferings of the beloved ones in a felon's cell, are literally dying of grief and mortification. Now, gentlemen, must it not be clear to every reflecting mind that such convicts, and also their friends, endure more punishment in one month's incarceration than do the generality of prisoners in one year. Thus we ask, in the name of justice and humanity, if there ought not to be some legal method of mitigating their punishment; but in the absence of Executive clemency or a law of classification, how are the peculiar and aggravated sufferings of this class to be modified?

We have not a few young men also who, having fallen into habits of intemperance, have unwittingly committed offences against law, but they were not deliberately or habitually vicious; as their habits of intemperance are of necessity repressed here, we might hope for such could they be preserved from the corrupting influence of matured or professional thieves and breakers of the law. I cannot witness the utter ruin of such persons and be silent. Cannot the contract system be so modified as to admit of the necessary classification, and so preserve them from daily contact with the braggarts in crime.

Every third week is still occupied in library operations, and permit me to say that the new and commodious office, which the agent, by your permission, has so generously furnished, gives a fresh and favorable impulse to these operations. We have had the honor of receiving several distinguished visitors during the past year, all of whom expressed their admiration of the library and its appurtenance. Among them was the celebrated "Chaplain General of all the prisons in Scotland." This office is suggestive, and indicates the fact that Scotland, at least, is in advance of us in her appreciation of the morals of prison discipline. Such an office here if filled by an experienced and otherwise competent person, would give the much needed uniformity, efficiency and progressiveness to the moral department of our State prisons.

Since the soldiers' claim for books, &c., has been made known to the public, we have received but few donations, hence we hope for a liberal appropriation from the Legislature at its coming session.

The Sabbath school in the female prison is still faithfully conducted by the matron and her assistants, and is accomplishing much good. Would that we had one conducted upon the same plan in the male prison. The fact that we have had but few escapes lately, and a marked falling off in the number of recommitments, speak well for the prison management.

The teachers in both departments have, considering their scanty recompense, been remarkably faithful in the discharge of their duties. Please find their several reports and the general statistics annexed. And now, gentlemen, allow me to present my sincere thanks to you and through you to the officers and keepers of both prisons for the personal respect shown and the facilities afforded me in the prosecution of my work.

Respectfully,

JOHN LUCKEY, Chaplain.

To the REV. JOHN LUCKEY :

Dear Sir—We, the undersigned, teachers of the Sing Sing male prison, would respectfully submit this our annual report for the year ending September 30th, 1864.

We have under our instruction at this the above date one hundred and fifty convicts learning as follows:

To read and spell	85
To write	25
Arithmetic	40

We also take pleasure in saying that many improve rapidly, and seem desirous of appropriating all their leisure time to study and mental culture. It is truly gratifying to witness the intense eagerness with which they apply themselves to their several tasks, for as the days grow shorter their interest and attention visibly increase. True, there are those among us who do not evince this aptitude and industry to learn, but they are, we are happy to say, comparatively few.

Besides the above numbers there are many more to whom we casually impart instruction; but these having learned to read and write, and in most cases to cipher previously to their reception here, and consequently not requiring our attention as fully as the others, we have deemed it not worth while to designate their number.

We would here beg leave to return thanks for the promptness and regularity with which we have been furnished books, slates, &c., for their use.

J. LAWRENCE MILLER,
JULIAN BURROUGHS.

Rev. JOHN LUCKEY:

Dear Sir—I respectfully submit to you a statement of my labors as teacher in the female prisons since entering upon the duties of that position on the 1st of April last.

The number who have been receiving instruction during the past season is sixty-one. Among these several have gone out by expiration of time, leaving my present number fifty-two, of which eight are learning arithmetic, five studying the alphabet, and the remaining thirty-nine engaged in reading, writing and spelling.

Among them all I observe diligent attention to study and commendable progress. Many who, when entering the prison, had not the least knowledge of these branches, are now, through perseverance, able to read and write tolerably well. Many of them while at work in the shops place their books before them, studying and working at the same time.

Copies are set for them on slates, and I also require them to write letters, which are submitted to me for correction. The improvement in writing cannot be as great as that shown in the other studies, they being confined to the use of pencil and slate, whereas, if supplied with pen and copy books, progress might be more rapid.

Two hours of my time are daily spent in hearing recitations.

Yours respectfully,

FANNIE S. LOGAN.

FEMALE DEPARTMENT SING SING PRISON.

To the Honorable Board of Inspectors of State Prisons :

Gentlemen—For the first time since I entered upon the office of Matron in this Institution, it becomes my duty to report to you its condition.

The number of women in the prison, Sept. 30, 1863, was 130. Since that time ninety-one have been received. Making whole number 221. Fifty have been discharged by expiration of sentence and commutation; 6 were pardoned; 3 died; one was sent to Lunatic Asylum at Utica, and one escaped.

There has been a greater number of inmates during this year than at any previous period. This has made it necessary to confine two in a cell, and to crowd the hospital and nurseries to an extent which we deem injurious both to health and morals. Thus far, however, to the credit of the matrons be it said, order and discipline have been well maintained.

This rapid increase of numbers must of necessity, swell the expenses of the prison to a sum larger than usual, at a time too when provisions and clothing can be procured only at exorbitant prices.

The financial affairs will be found definitely detailed in the report of the Agent and Warden, to whose province it exclusively belongs.

We have 50 women employed on the contract of Isaac G. Johnson. For the remaining 108, very little work is supplied, except that furnished for convict use in the male prison, and the necessary demands for the female department. Thus many are compelled to sit idle in the shops.

If more reading matter of a kind to interest the prisoner could be provided, great good would result from thus affording occupation and means of improvement.

In my daily walks through the prison, I am invariably accosted with the cry "Oh! Mrs. Logan, have you not something for me to do, or read?" "I've read all the books here."

Our library is opened to them every Saturday fortnight, but the books are usually read through by the close of the first Sabbath.

If imprisonment is to accomplish its design of punishment, resulting in preparations for better life, on restoration to citizenship, the leisure time of convicts must be suitably employed.

Chapel and Sabbath school exercises are attended with much interest, our worthy Chaplain ministering to us weekly—preaching the Bread of Life to hungry souls. Weekly prayer meetings prove a blessing in our midst. Mrs. Luckey, our chaplain's wife, still continues her visits to our "room for prayer," where some fifty convicts assemble to praise and pray, very manly showing a determination to walk in the right path. All are encouraged to speak freely of their feelings, and oftentimes the whole assembly will be found in tears—tears of contrition too. Letters received from some who have gone out, give us good reason to believe that their hearts were regenerated.

Madame Dubois, the prisoner's friend, is yet untiring in her labors of love, frequently visiting both male and female prisons.

Every opportunity is afforded for those who desire to learn to read and write. Many who entered here not knowing a letter, have acquired sufficient skill to enable them to write letters to their friends, and evince pride and determination in their efforts for self-improvement. Very many, however, are already well taught and intelligent, giving some proof, that they were not brought here through ignorance.

The new commutation law passed in 1864, has proved an incentive to well doing and encourages to greater effort to curb the passions and obey the rules of the prison. I cannot speak too earnestly of the great benefit conferred by this law, which has given the poor convict something to hope for as the reward of patient endeavors.

For a time during the winter, small pox ranged in our vicinity. But through vigilant attention of officers and prohibition of visitors, together with strict attention to cleanliness, not one case occurred within our walls. Cholera morbus and dysentery prevailed also for a season among the prisoners, but yielded to skillfull medical attention and did not, in any instance, prove fatal.

The particulars of the sanitary condition will be more fully shown in Dr. Fryne's yearly report.

Before closing this paper, it is due my assistants that I speak a word in commendation of them. They have richly deserved my entire approbation for the readiness and efficiency with which they have aided me in sustaining and enforcing the proper discipline of the prison. Not forgetting also, my hearty thanks to the Agent who has always been ready and willing to render me all needful assistance.

And now, gentlemen, to yourselves, the honorable Board, I tender my grateful acknowledgments for all past favors and hoping still to merit your approbation.

I am, most respectfully yours,

KATE M. LOGAN.

AUBURN PRISON.

AGENT AND WARDEN'S REPORT.

AUBURN PRISON, November 1st, 1864.

To the Honorable Board of Inspectors of State Prisons of the State of New York:

Gentlemen—In compliance with the law I submit to you the annual report of the financial and other transactions of the Auburn prison for the fiscal year ending September 30th, 1864.

The first two months of the present fiscal year this prison was under the management of Mr. Kirkpatrick; my management of the prison, therefore, covers a period of only ten months of the present year.

The extraordinary high prices of nearly every article required for the support of convicts have, as a matter of course, increased the expenses of the prison largely, whilst the prices of convict labor upon contract has remained the same as last year.

The contract earnings for the year ending September 30th, 1863, were.....	$87,179 49
Miscellaneous earnings for the same time.....	12,746 57

Total earnings for the year.....	$99,926 06
Deduct expenditures for ordinary support.....	80,099 41

Earnings over expenditures for ordinary support....	$19,826 65
---	-------------

The contract earnings for the year ending September 30, 1864, were	$74,940 22
Miscellaneous earnings for the same time.....	41,850 74

Total earnings for the year	$116,790 96
Deduct expenditures for ordinary support.....	99,334 53

Earnings over expenditures for ordinary support....	$17,456 43
---	-------------

The earnings as compared with last year are considerably decreased from the fact of our having a much less number of convicts.

Average number of convicts in prison, 1863.....	772
Average number of convicts in prison, 1864.....	652

Showing an average of.....	120

less than last year.

The Legislature at its last session increased the pay of the officers of the State prisons about twenty per cent. The increase was uniform in all of the prisons with the exception of Sing Sing, where the guard are paid $600 per year. At Auburn and Clinton they are paid only $550. The duties of the guard at the different prisons are much the same, and I can see no reason why their pay should not be uniform.

The additional amounts paid to the officers help to increase the expenses of the prison over former years, but with the present prices of living it was found to be absolutely necessary.

The amount drawn from the State Treasurer on agent's estimates for the year ending September 30th, 1864, was.....	$104,425 50
Cash received for convict labor and other sources and deposited to the credit of the Treasurer.....	119,312 74
Excess of deposits over amounts drawn from Treasurer	$14,887 24

From Treasurer on agent's estimates	104,425 50
	$104,883 09
Less amount in hands of late agent.....	123 24
	$104,759 85
Less amount expended.....	103,873 70
Balance on hand October 1st, 1864	$886 15

The average earnings of each convict upon contract in this prison for the year ending September 30th, 1864, was forty-three cents and six mills per day.

The average number of convicts on contract was 553.

The average number of convicts in prison during the year was 652.

The total cost of supporting each convict in prison per day, including everything, was forty-three cents and seven mills.

The whole number of convicts in prison, on the 30th day of September, 1864, was 550.

There has been sent to the asylum for insane convicts during the year three, and returned from the asylum, as cured, two.

The health of the convicts in this prison during the past year has been uncommonly good, and their conduct, as a general rule, very good.

The value of the real estate of this prison as appraised this year amounts to $554,544.00, being $300 less than last year.

The personal property as appraised this year amounts to $35,998.51; showing an increase over last year of $1,687.51.

For further details of the working of this prison see the statements and tables following this report.

The following contracts have been let at this prison during the present year :

One with Hayden & Letchworth for 100 convicts, to be employed in the manufacture of hames, saddlery hardware, &c., for two years from September 1st, 1864, at 60 5-10 cents per day (was formerly 40 cents per day).

One with Barber, Sheldon & Co., for 100 convicts, to be employed in the manufacture of agricultural implements, for two years from September 1st, 1864, at $1.01 per day; also with the same parties, a contract for 100 men for three years, to be employed at the same business, to commence at the expiration of the two year contract, at 75 cents per day. (Former price paid upon the above contract was 45 cents per day.)

One with Casey, Clark & Co., for 65 convicts, to be employed in the manufacture of tools and skates, for two years from September 1st, 1864, at 65 3-10 cents per day. (Former price 55 cents per day.)

One with W. J. Moses for 75 convicts, to be employed in the manufacture of cabinet ware, for five years from November 1st, 1864, at 67 cents per day. (Former price 61 cents per day.)

The prices obtained upon the above contracts are much larger than has ever before been paid for convict labor in this State, and to some extent correspond with the advance on labor outside of the prison, and promise to add largely to the prison income for the future.

The receipts from visitors during the fiscal year have been as follows:

Balance on hand October 1st, 1863.....	$1,443 25
Received by Mr. Kirkpatrick, late agent, for October and November, present year	277 00
Received by present agent up to September 30th, 1864, (10 months),.....	1,875 75

	$3,596 00
Amount paid to discharged convicts by Mr. Kirkpatrick for October and November.....	$175 00
Amount paid by present agent to 30th September, 1864, (10 months).....	2,585 00
	<hr/>
	$2,760 00

Balance in bank September 30th, 1864, to the credit of ticket fund....	$836 00
--	----------

The receipts from visitors during the present fiscal year have been	497 25
---	--------

Over that of last year, and the amount paid out for the same period exceeds the payment of last year.....	1,885 00
---	----------

The increase in payment to discharged convicts is owing to the law passed last winter taking off additional time for good conduct, thereby increasing largely the number to be discharged.

The amount paid to each convict has been the same as last year: five dollars during the summer and fall months and ten dollars for the winter months.

The law allowing convicts to earn a certain portion of time by uniform good conduct has thus far worked well, not only to the convict but to the discipline of the prison.

The prison Sabbath school has been well conducted by Mr. Yates, the superintendent, assisted by several gentlemen connected with the theological seminary of this city and other gentlemen of Auburn.

To Mr. Gallup, the principal keeper, I am indebted for the entire discipline of the prison, and I think I may safely say that it compares favorably with its management for the past few years.

Dr. Button, the prison physician, has conducted his department to my entire satisfaction, and his report will show that the sanitary condition of the prison has never been better.

Mr. Shephard, the chaplain, has exerted a very wholesome influence over the convicts and has been untiring in his efforts to improve them. The duties of a prison chaplain who devotes his whole time to his charge are certainly very arduous and complicated and add much to the good conduct of the convicts.

In the clerk of the prison, Mr. Whiting, I have found a faithful, efficient officer.

The kitchen keeper, Mr. Wade, has managed that department with remarkable success. There has been little or indeed no complaints from the convicts in regard to their food, either as to quality or quantity.

I may be permitted, in this connection, to thank the contractors in this prison for the prompt manner in which they have met all their engagements with the State. In no instance have any payments been withheld. I have found them all very obliging and gentlemanly men, and it gives me great pleasure to so record them.

With the present unsettled condition of the country and the very high prices required for all articles necessary for prison use, I cannot see that the prospects for the future look very flattering. Still I hope to see Auburn Prison continue as now and in the past, a paying institution.

Permit me, gentlemen, to thank you for your very many acts of kindness and for your advice and assistance in the discharge of my duties.

Very respectfully yours,

D. B. McNEIL.

PHYSICIAN'S REPORT.

HOSPITAL OF THE AUBURN PRISON, }
September 30th, 1864. }

To the Honorable, the Board of Inspectors of State Prisons:

GENTLEMEN—The annual report of the medical department of this prison for the year ending September 30th, 1864, is herewith respectfully submitted:

The annexed tables show the amount and kind of sickness in the prison during each month of the year, including those treated in the hospital, and all applications and prescriptions out of hospital.

During the first half of the year the sickness has been quite equal in amount and severity to that of the preceding year, but for the last six months there has been much less, and the diseases have been of a milder character.

The mortality of the first five and a half months was thirteen, two of which died of wounds and injuries, while in the last six and a half months, only two died, both of which were consumptive cases of long standing. The food has been abundant, of good quality, and well prepared. The clothing has been fitted to the necessities of the aged, weak and infirm. The cells and wings have been kept well white-washed, and as thoroughly ventilated as their construction would permit. Medicines and hospital supplies have been promptly furnished by the agent and warden, by whose kind co-operation I have been greatly assisted in my official duties.

With the principal keeper, all of my official and personal intercourse has been cordial, and satisfactory. I have also received much personal kindness from the officers generally.

To yourselves, gentlemen, I feel renewed obligations, for your uniform courtesy and kindness.

Yours truly,

JAS. D. BUTTON,

Physician Auburn Prison.

CHAPLAIN'S REPORT.

AUBURN PRISON, September 30, 1864.To the Inspectors of State Prisons of the State of New York:

Gentlemen—In submitting my annual report, I would first record a grateful acknowledgment of a kind beneficent Providence which has conducted us peacefully and prosperously to the close of another fiscal year. Next to this expression of gratitude to God, so abundantly due to him, I feel a pleasure in recording that through your courtesy, gentlemen, and that of the agent and warden, and of the officers in general, I have been essentially aided in the discharge of my duties as chaplain. I have given my time and services exclusively to the ministerial, pastoral and civil duties of my office, and have found here a most ample field of labor for the exercise and use of an experience of many years devoted to the religious instruction and moral discipline of my fellow-man. A pastoral charge within prison walls differs widely from an ordinary congregation of men, women and children of such moral habits as entitle them to respectability and freedom. Much labor with little fruit is the result of our best efforts in the religious culture of these men. Good impressions are readily made on this class of minds, for they are impressionable people; but “their goodness is as a morning cloud, and as the early dew it goeth away.” They form many good resolutions; they see their errors, and feel the consequences of a self-indulgent and vicious life, and when alone in their cells, reflecting on their condition, they repent, they mourn, they weep and pray, and make their solemn vows to God, and give the usual evidences of a converted state. Some twenty-five or thirty have passed through these states of mind that have come under my observation during the present year; while many others profess to have passed through a like state of mind in previous years, and consider their arrest and imprisonment, together with the reading of the Bible and the religious instructions received here, the means of their conversion and their present hopeful state. Some of them on going out are “as unstable as water,” while others continue to give good evidence of a regenerate state of mind and a permanent reformation.

To promote their moral and religious improvement a copy of the Holy Scriptures, in English, German or French, is put in each cell, also a hymn book and a prayer book, if desired. Frequent visits are made to each cell by the chaplain for personal, religious and social conversation, when a religious tract is usually left for their reading. Special attention is given to the sick in the hospital each day in the week, when practicable, when sufficient time is taken with each one to impart needful instruction and comfort, kindly and patiently conducting them in their sufferings and in the dying hour, in the absence of kindred and friends, to their merciful Savior, "a friend that sticketh closer than a brother;" and I am happy to say that a majority of them that have died within the present year have "laid hold upon the hope set before them," and have received religious comfort for the dying hour.

On the Sabbath, between the hours of seven and nine A. M., a Sabbath school is held in the chapel, to which all the well-behaved convicts can come, if they choose, and receive biblical instruction from a very competent corps of teachers. Some two hundred convicts belong to the school. The school is superintended by Mr. H. A. Yates, whose prompt and efficient services, gratuitously rendered for many successive years, entitle him to the respects and thanks of the officers of the prison, and to the gratitude of the convicts. The teachers are mostly from the Auburn Theological Seminary, whose intelligence and zeal render their services highly engaging and edifying. Several citizens hold themselves in readiness to supply the place of the students during vacations in the seminary, so that the school is supplied during the whole year. Some of these teach constantly. Of this number is the venerable Dr. Taylor, of "four score years," who has taught a class statedly for the last seven years, whose store of biblical knowledge is "a treasury, out of which he bringeth things, new and old, to give a portion of meat in due season to every one." During this hour the choir, consisting of convicts, are rehearsing church music, preparatory to public worship. Their rehearsals are in the library, from which they come into the chapel in time to close the school by singing a hymn, in which the school join.

Public service is held in the chapel every Sabbath at nine o'clock A. M., when all the convicts are assembled, so far as practicable, together with their visiting friends, who occupy the galleries. The agent, the deputy, and a score of keepers being present for the better order of the congregation, a most respectful hearing is secured. The services are conducted as in ordinary religious congregations. On the second Sabbath in each month, Roman Catholic service is held in the chapel at three o'clock P. M., for the accommodation of those convicts who prefer that order of worship, the keepers being present as in the morning service. The chaplain holds a brief service in the hospital at 10-30 A. M., for the benefit of those who are sick, when the condition of the inmates will admit of it without injury. Funeral services are not held on the day of the burial of the dead, no relatives ordinarily being present, but on the following sabbath appropriate allusion is made to the deceased in the chapel, and more especially in the hospital, in the hearing of those who witness the sickness and death of their comrades. These occasions are more than ordinarily impressive. The chaplain also holds a brief service at 2 o'clock P. M. in the "Asylum for Insane Convicts," a report of which please find appended to the superintendent's report of the asylum. Upon the close of this service I return to the prison and visit convicts in their cells for an hour and a half, inquiring into their moral and religious states, paying special attention to those who have just come into prison, to impress upon their minds a proper observance of prison rules, that their condition may be the more supportable, and to propose to them some moral and intellectual improvement, that the sacrifice of time and liberty, which they are required to undergo, may be turned to their better improvement; and to enjoin upon those that are on the eve of leaving prison to be careful in the choice of associates, offering to give them a letter of introduction to some friend or pastor whom they may name, asking for them such kind attention as may guard them against evil influences, and aid them in business and in the practice of virtue, and leaving at each call usually a religious tract; and it is a pleasure to witness how grateful most of them are for a few kind words of religious counsel and encouragement. The act of legislation which takes off a certain number of months from the time of their imprisonment for good conduct, is often alluded to in these conversations, and which manifestly promotes a cautious attention to prison rules.

The correspondence of the convicts and their numerous friends has been attended to with promptness and discrimination. In addition to the privilege given to convicts to write letters once in three months, a large number of letters have been written by special permission of the Inspectors and agent, which has been very gratifying to the convicts and their friends, of which the chaplain by no means complains.

Kind letters written by their friends, containing wholesome advice and encouragement, tend greatly to alleviate and improve their condition. But friends should be cautious not to write anything to produce discontent or disobedience, (which if written will be withheld from them,) and also not to encourage false hopes of pardon or commutation of sentence, for such ungrounded hopes being doomed to disappointment, the convict sinks in despondency or is roused to insubordination.

The library consists of a choice selection of books, moral and religious, historical, biographical, scientific and miscellaneous, numbering 2,106 volumes, some of which are quite small and are badly worn; they are much read, and, under circumstances, unfavorable to good preservation. They are taken to the several shops, in numbers corresponding to the number of men in each shop, and put into cupboards provided for the purpose, and drawn out weekly, under the eye of the keepers, and read in the cells and in the shops daily when their task is done, and are unavoidably less or more soiled. These books are taken to the library four times a year, repaired, changed and returned in a few days, giving the books as general a circulation as possible.

The convicts here read many books, more than men in ordinary business, and the use of books is altogether important to the better discipline and improvement of these men; and the State should appropriate a sum of money annually, adequate to the demands of this institution.

Three teachers have been employed for the year; they have taught reading and writing, orthography and arithmetic; they have used "Sanders Speller and Definer," his "First, Second, Third and Fourth Reader," "Thomson's Arithmetic," and the "Spencerian System of Penmanship." They are competent teachers, and have taught with fidelity. They have met monthly in the chaplain's office and reported to him the number of convicts they have instructed during the month, the branches of education in which they have given instruction, the text books used, and the progress made by the convicts; and out of these monthly reports the chaplain has constructed his quarterly reports to the Board of Inspectors. The reports of the teachers please find hereunto annexed.

In conclusion, without instituting a comparison between the present and past state of the prison, I beg leave to say that its management and discipline, through the watchfulness of the agent and warden, and his judicious government, seconded by the harmonious and prompt action of the deputy, through the courtesy and competency of the clerk, the judicious and generous management of the kitchen, the cleanliness of the cells, beds and bedding, the admirable condition of the hospital, the prompt and harmonious action of the keepers, and the vigilance of the guards, is such as to command the respect and confidence of all, as a most admirable State institution.

Most respectfully submitted.

D. A. SHEPARD, Chaplain.

TEACHERS' REPORT.

Rev. D. A. SHEPARD, Chaplain :

According to law and usage, I would respectfully submit my annual report as teacher in Auburn Prison. The average number taught by me,

In reading and spelling.....	25
In writing and reading.....	50
In arithmetic.....	15
Total	90

It is difficult to impart instruction in these cells, and our time is very limited—being only about ten minutes to each pupil, twice in a week; and yet some make great proficiency—some that would compare well with those that have better facilities for improvement—while others, from their careless and dissolute habits, are but little benefited by instruction. Those of the former class, who expect to go out soon if they receive the benefit of the new law, are very anxious to gain all the knowledge they possibly can before leaving the prison.

Yours, respectfully,

ISAAC LEWIS, Teacher.

Rev. D. A. SHEPARD, Chaplain :

According to law and usage, I would respectfully submit to you a statement of my labors as teacher since entering upon the duties of that office in July last in the Auburn Prison.

There has been an average number of ninety convicts who have received instruction from me, and at present there are ninety-eight, of which there are

Learning to read and spell.....	45
do do write	24
do arithmetic	29
Total	98

I find the most of the above number quite interested in their studies, anxious to improve, and thankful for the privileges they enjoy, as well as the instruction they receive.

Respectfully submitted,

E. H. NORTHRUP, Teacher.

REV. D. A. SHEPARD, Chaplain of Auburn Prison :

Sir—In compliance with your request, I respectfully report, that during or within the present year I have had under my tuition as teacher in said prison over one hundred convicts, and that I now have ninety-four, of which number there are learning to read only, 9; learning to read and spell, 6; learning to read and write, 6; learning to write only, 24; learning to spell only, 7; learning to cypher only, 26; learning to cypher and write, 11; learning to cypher and spell, 2; learning to spell and write, 3. Total, 94.

That most of my pupils, considering their limited time and facilities for studying, have made very fair and some very good progress in their studies. That several who did not know how to read or write when they entered the prison can now do both in a creditable manner; and others who knew nothing about figures can now do ordinary practical business sums. That as a general thing they appear to take an interest in their studies and evince a desire to learn all they can. That almost invariably they are orderly in their conduct and respectful in their manners and deportment to their teacher.

Respectfully submitted,

CHARLES J. HULBERT, Teacher.

In the above table, the unusually large average of the weekly cost of support for each patient during the eleven months ending Sept. 30, 1859, was owing to its being the year of the opening of the Asylum, when preparatory expenses were large in proportion to the number of patients under treatment.

The continued advance in the price of rations, clothing and bedding, fuel and lights, ordinary repairs, and all labor and subsistence, has necessarily augmented our expenditures during the last fiscal year.

I have endeavored, however, to restrict the increase as much as might be consistent with a comfortable provision for the patients, and as may be seen by inspection of table No. 9, the amount of disbursements has been but about $1,900 more than that of the year 1863, and considerably less than that of either of the year of 1859, '60, or '61.

In this connection I take occasion to say that it may very properly be questioned whether a management characterized by severe economical measures is always the better policy. I am very certain it should be a secondary one in all institutions like this under our charge; yet the fearful forebodings which hang over the financial aspects of our unhappy country, cannot fail to remind us that, in every regard, strict principles of economy should constitute one of the most important considerations in every private and public administration. Impressed with these convictions, I have endeavored to avoid any extravagant use of resources, and to restrict our outlays to a proportion commensurate with the obligations entrusted to our charge.

In former reports I have adverted to the propriety of an extension of the objects of this State charity. It would be well if all the criminal insane could be cared for by a provision made exclusively for themselves, and preventing their association with other insane patients who have been guilty of no penal offence. This subject has been repeatedly brought before the Legislature without favorable action. I recommend it to your consideration, with the hope that so soon as it may be consistent with the state of public affairs, a liberal policy may be urged in its behalf.

The protection of society requires that further efforts should be made to guard against the violence and apparent criminal acts perpetrated under insane impressions. Individuals have sometimes committed offences under a transitory madness, or during an explosion of maniacal excitement, which had hitherto been in a state of incubation, and which found its development in the circumstances under which they were placed. This and other similar considerations which have, from time to time, been brought before the public, clearly point to the propriety of instituting one or more commissioners in lunacy, who shall look after this portion of the interests of the State.

With the general condition of the asylum during the fiscal year which has now closed, you have made yourselves acquainted by your monthly and quarterly visitations. It is a matter of great congratulation that during this period we have been so free from the ordinary diseases which accompany the returning seasons. No deaths have occurred during the year, and there has been very little necessity of prescriptions for complaints other than those immediately connected with diseased mental conditions.

But six patients have been received since my last report, while the number discharged has been fourteen. Of those remaining very few have materially grown worse, while a very considerable proportion have improved. One patient succeeded in making his escape over the west wall, but was recovered after a few days absence.

The three patients discharged "not improved" were cases of dementia of long standing. One had been an inmate of Sing Sing prison two years and nine months; of Utica asylum nine years, and of this asylum three years and five months. Another had been an inmate of Sing Sing prison three years and five months; of Utica asylum thirteen years and two months, and of this asylum three years and five months; and another had been an inmate of Sing Sing prison eight years and three months; of Utica asylum eight years and three months, and of this asylum three years and five months.

In April, 1861, sixteen patients were removed by legislative enactment from Utica asylum to this place. All of them, with but one exception, were confirmed incurables. A large majority of them received from the several prisons of the State are of the same mental character just mentioned, so that it can hardly be expected that our reports will show the same proportion of cures that are found in other asylums for the insane.

It has been remarked by some that we are affording greater care for those who have committed crimes and become insane than for the unfortunate and demented poor who have never offended.

If the State has, in mercy, shown humanity to her insane guilty convicts, there is no reason why the counties should leave their deranged innocent paupers to degradation. It should be remembered that these unfortunate convicts, guilty though they be, are members of the same human family with ourselves, and in their helpless condition provision in some way or other must be made for them. To consign them to the tender mercies of some of our county alms-houses, would indeed be no charity, for many of them, by inspection, are found to be shameful abodes, where hope and charity are well nigh unknown. To the praise of some counties, however, ample provision and liberal support has been guaranteed.

The patients during the year have performed their usual amount of work, rendering great assistance in the garden, wash house and ironing room, and indeed in every department they have afforded ready and willing labor, which has been of material benefit to themselves, and of advantage to the institution.

The products of the garden have not been so great as during the former season, owing to the continued drouth during the last summer.

The appropriation from the Legislature for repairs on front wall and buildings of the asylum has been partially applied. The roofs on the wings have been repaired and well painted, and the felt covering on the large rear building, together with that upon the carpenter shop, woodshed, soap house and ice house, have been removed and replaced by new and substantial tin roofing, with a proper coating of paint. Preparations are being made to take off the old felt roof upon the barn and substitute a new roof of slate. The entire front wall, which was fast going to decay, has been protected with a substantial cut-stone coping, and will be pointed with mortar inside and out, thus adding greatly to its appearance, and securing it as a noble and substantial structure.

A contract has been made for the construction of a new heating apparatus to warm by steam radiation. It is designed to be completed in October or early in November.

I take pleasure in here expressing my thanks to all those connected with the asylum who have given me their assistance in the administration of its several departments.

Mr. I. M. Van Alstine, who has acted in the capacity of baker and storekeeper since the opening of the asylum, has given notice of his intention to leave the institution in a few weeks, for the purpose of engaging in other pursuits. I cannot part with his useful services without regret, nor withhold an acknowledgment of my appreciation of his strict attention and watchful care over every interest in his department.

In the month of May last Mr. J. W. Wright entered upon the duties of assistant superintendent and clerk to the asylum. For the readiness with which he made himself acquainted with the details of his office, and the constant watchfulness he has at all times shown in ministering to the want and comfort of the patients, I desire to return my grateful acknowledgments. In every department entrusted to his care he has rendered most valuable assistance.

To the Rev. D. A. Shepard, who has officiated as chaplain to the asylum, I also take pleasure in acknowledging my obligations for his earnest and successful discharge of official responsibilities. By reference to his re port hereto appended, it will be seen that religious exercises have been conducted once on each Sunday throughout the year. Circumstances have rarely occurred to prevent the observance of these services during this period; and the good degree of order and decorum manifested by the inmates, together with their decent respect for the religious instruction imparted with simplicity, and urged in love and kindness, attest in the best and most striking manner the faithfulness with which this portion of their moral treatment has been conducted. If any are disposed to think lightly of religious exercises for the insane, or cavil at the idea of any benefit resulting therefrom, we invite them to a participation in our Sunday services, and an observance of the tranquilizing effect produced upon some of our patients by these sacred and hallowed influences.

In conclusion, gentlemen, allow me to renew once more my obligations to yourselves personally, for your continued confidence and cordial support in my endeavors to discharge the important duties devolving upon me. It is a source of unmingled gratification that our official intercourse has ever been, as I trust, one of reciprocal pleasure to ourselves and of united interest in the unfortunate fellow-beings entrusted to our charge.

With thankfulness for the past, and renewed hopes for the future, may each day find us farther than before in the fulfilment of every responsibility confided to our care and keeping.

Respectfully submitted.

CHAPLAIN'S REPORT.

AUBURN, September 30th, 1864.To the Honorable Board of Inspectors :

Gentlemen—For the year now ended I have held divine service in the State Lunatic asylum for insane convicts on every Sabbath at 2 o'clock when circumstances would permit. These services have been brief, consisting of prayer, the reading of the scriptures, and practical observations on the lessons read for the occasion, interspersed with singing several hymns at each service. The superintendent uses the melodeon in leading the singing, and having selected a number of the more reliable convicts, and by giving them practice weekly in the tunes used. This part of the service passes off with but little discord, and the convicts generally seem to be much interested in this part of the service. There are about seventy convicts in attendance generally, and being under the eye of the superintendent, and the special care of the keepers, they behave so orderly that the services are seldom interrupted. A change from their halls to the chapel, and the public devotions of the hour, have a quieting effect upon their feelings, and most of them are attentive to the passing services, and, we trust, in some measure profited.

The attentions demanded by these demented and depressed convicts are of the most exacting character, requiring the vigilant, prompt and patient services of the officers, both night and day. The provisions made by the State for the protection and comfort of these men, for their physical, mental and moral improvement, so far as they are capable of improvement, is truly praiseworthy. This asylum relieves their friends from an insupportable burden, and the community in general from the fear and dangers consequent on their presence when suffered to run at large. By the judicious management of the superintendent, and the carefulness of his assistants, this institution is admirably conducted. Its delightful premises, its generous provisions and its humane discipline, need but be seen and known to be commended as a munificent State charity.

Most respectfully submitted.

D. A. SHEPARD.

Beside the statement of unavailable earnings, there have been 5,321 days' labor performed in the State shop (so called), employed as follows: Four convicts in washing and drying clothes, six in making and mending shoes, six making and mending clothes, and one as waiter; 1,284 days in hall, performed by eight men, employed in scrubbing and cleaning; 3,200 days in kitchen, performed by eleven men, employed as cooks, bakers, waiters, &c.; six men are employed as carpenters, coopers and painters constantly upon State work, erecting buildings, repairing, &c.—the balance able to work in preparing wood, gardening, grading the prison grounds. (No idlers.)

It will be seen that notwithstanding the average number of convicts in prison during the year is $64\frac{1}{2}$ less than the preceding year the aggregate expense of the year 1864 over that of 1863 is \$5,482.07, partially owing to the increase of salaries of officers, but mostly to the increase of prices upon every article that enters into the consumption of the prison—for instance: For the year 1862 it cost \$8.63 per man for clothing; for 1863, \$9.65; for 1864, \$14.24. The rations show a corresponding increase.

No proposals having been received upon the advertisement for reletting the iron contract in September, 1863, under your direction I entered into a temporary contract of nine months with Andrew Williams. This contract has been running very successfully; only one drawback: the want of more men to work it full, there being no time we could give them the number asked for.

Under the direction of the Board, in the month of July last, I advertised for the reletting of the iron contract, and invited proposals for shoe contract; the time for which proposals were to be received will expire October 6th, 1864. From present indications, taking into account the unsettled condition of the country, I am fearful we shall not be able to let contracts for the length of time indicated in the advertisement—being two, three or five years.

The iron contract will expire December 1st, 1864; the shoe contract, by its terms, will expire July 1st, 1865. The contractors upon both of these contracts are driving them with energy and have paid for the labor promptly.

The appropriation of $500 made during the last session of the Legislature for the support of the stockade will be found sufficient for the coming year.

The appropriation of 1864 of $500 for plank roads is but partly expended; in order to keep the road in proper repair for the coming year we shall need an additional appropriation of $750.

The appropriation of $4,000 for wrought iron doors to prison cells has been mostly expended; 332 cell doors have been made by convicts during the past year; the balance are in an advanced state of completion. The appropriation will more than cover the expense.

The appropriation of $1,500 for sinking shaft for the purpose of prospecting for ore is being expended. This sum would have been expended before but for the want of men to perform the work. The high price of citizen labor precluded the idea of employing them, for the amount would have been expended before any results could be obtained.

The appropriation of $1,600 for the construction of new ovens has been mostly expended in the erection of two good substantial ovens.

Under your direction, pursuant to chapter 264, being an act passed April 21st, 1864, authorizing the construction of a road from the State Prison in Clinton county to the Northern railroad, I have caused a map and survey to be made of the route contemplated in said act, and filed the same with the Comptroller, and seven miles of said road is under contract and in an advanced state of completion, and when completed will, in my opinion, be of great benefit to the prison as well as to those owning lands in the vicinity of the road.

There has been no escape during the year.

There have been discharged from this prison during the past year as follows: By expiration and commutation, 130; by pardon, 13; twelve have died. Out of the former number (130) all but three have availed themselves of the benefit of the law allowing them to earn a commutation of sentence by good behavior—a very gratifying result.

In the months of August and September last our prison was visited by a committee of the Prison Association, Dr. John H. Griscom, Frank W. Ballard, Henry K. Bull and Abraham Beal. When the three former gentlemen were here I was not at home, a fact I very much regret, as it would have given me a great deal of pleasure to have met them, for I believe they all seek to serve the cause of humanity, and at the same time see that the demands of an offended law are properly carried out.

Notwithstanding the excited state of the country during the year, good order has uniformly prevailed in the prison. The inmates, with but few exceptions, have conducted themselves well. A large majority of them seem to be trying to earn all the benefits of the commutation law. This law, in my opinion, is having a salutary effect upon the discipline of our prison.

The chaplain has been untiring in his duties in imparting religious instructions to the inmates. This officer has a great field for usefulness and is performing his duties well. The Sabbath school is in a flourishing condition, as the report of the chaplain will show.

But very little insubordination has been manifested during the year, as the report of the principal keeper will show.

In April last the Hon. L. W. Pierce, who had held the position of clerk in this prison for nearly five years and had performed its arduous duties with great ability, resigned his position. I think I speak your sentiments when I say that the prison lost an efficient, honest and upright officer. His successor, J. C. Lewis, though his connection with the prison has been short, is performing his duties with commendable ability. For a further and more detailed statement of the religious and moral instruction, and of the health and medical treatment of the convicts, I refer you to the reports of the respective officers having charge of the same.

The principal keeper and physician have been untiring in the discharge of their duties, and to them and to all the officers of the prison I feel under lasting obligations for their cheerful support in maintaining the discipline of the prison, and through life they have my best wishes for their prosperity and happiness. And permit me to thank you, gentlemen, all and each of you, for the prompt support which I have at all times received at your hands in the discharge of my duties.

I have the honor to remain

Truly yours,

JOHN PARKHURST,
Agent and Warden.

I, John Parkhurst, agent and warden of the Clinton Prison, do solemnly swear that the facts and statements set forth in the foregoing report are just and true, according to the best of my knowledge and belief.

JOHN PARKHURST.

To the Hon. the Inspectors of State Prisons of the State of New York:

GENTLEMEN—In compliance with law and custom, I herewith present the report of the sanitary condition of this institution for the year ending September 30th, 1864:

There has been no severe epidemic or contagious disease in the prison during the year, and although typhus fever has prevailed in the vicinity, there has been but one case in the yard.

Of the deaths that have occurred during the year, a large majority have been from chronic and organic disease.

I would improve this opportunity to acknowledge my renewed obligations to the agent for his kindly advice and assistance in the discharge of my official duties; also to the principal keeper, and other officers, for their courtesy and cordial co-operation.

To you, gentlemen, I would return my thanks for the uniform kindness that has characterized all your intercourse with me.

Respectfully yours,

JOSEPH H. SMITH,

Physician to Clinton Prison.

CHAPLAIN'S REPORT.

CLINTON PRISON, October 1st, 1864.To the Honorable Board of Inspectors of State Prisons:

GENTLEMEN—With the exception of some four weeks, this date closes my first year's labor as chaplain of this prison. I have found my time and energies taxed to their utmost in meeting the demands of this position. Though not without its trials, it has been to me in many respects a pleasant year's labor, and I trust not without some good results. All of these results cannot be gathered up or enumerated in a yearly report, they must be left to the development of time, and even of eternity, for that only can test the character or fruits of our labors here.

Our Sabbath services have been conducted in the usual manner of worshipping assemblies, and I have never ministered to a congregation where greater order and propriety marked the conduct of the audience. Close attention and solemn interest in the services, I have noticed even in an unusual degree. Not unfrequently the tear steals silently down the cheek, and I have been happily disappointed in the zest with which convicts have seemed to enjoy and appreciate religious services.

Our chapel has been supplied with a new hymn and tune book entitled "Songs of the Church," which has added much to the interest of our Sabbath services. Fifty copies only of the Hymn and Tune Book have been purchased, and as many more are really needed, for the use of the whole congregation. The choir are now being trained under the tuition of one of the keepers, and marked improvement is already noticed.

Our Sabbath school has been prosperous during the year, having nearly doubled in number, while the whole number in the prison has been considerably reduced. We have over eighty scholars on our list, divided into seven classes, taught mostly by the keepers. The attendance is voluntary, but very regular, and a good deal of interest is manifested, both by teachers and scholars. It is a self-denying labor on the part of the teachers, after their close confinement to the duties of their station during the week, but it is gratifying to see the promptness and cheerfulness with which they give themselves to so good a work, with no reward but the consciousness of doing good to the ignorant and needy. May they find a rich satisfaction in such a reward.

I have abundant evidence that the truths taught from the desk and in the Sabbath school, have had a salutary impression upon many minds, from the frequent interviews sought with me at my office, and at the cells, for religious conversation and instruction. Indeed, I find but few so hardened as not to be susceptible of religious impressions, and sometimes deeply conscious of their need of a saving interest in Christ.

By many of them the Bible is read with interest and profit, as well as religious books and tracts, and such religious papers as they are allowed to receive. I cannot but think that the influence on the discipline of the prison would be salutary, to say nothing of the information and religious profit to be derived, if the restriction on the circulation of judicious religious papers was removed. The secular views in such papers, I am confident, could do no serious harm, and this is the only objection to their circulation I have heard urged. As a matter of fact, the more shrewd among the convicts obtain this information now, and the temptation to do it by deception, bribery, and other means, is too great to be resisted by state prison virtue. Would it not be wise to remove this temptation by a judicious and lawful gratifying of their desire for intelligence?

The standard religious papers of the country, and such secular periodicals as Harper's Magazine, and the Atlantic Monthly, I am well convinced would not only do no harm, but would be highly beneficial. If the chaplain is competent to have the supervision of the library, and decide what books shall be admitted, I see not why the admission of all other reading should be taken from his control.

It is a distinction the reason of which I am not able to comprehend. If his knowledge of books and judgment of reading matter is unequal to that of men trained in the ordinary avocations of life, then he is unequal to the position of chaplain, and should be removed.

On entering upon my duties here, I found a large number of the prisoners destitute of Bibles. The scattered Bibles have been gathered up, and new ones to the amount of fifty dollars, have been added to our stock, and out of these, two hundred and sixty-nine men have been supplied with Bibles. Much time and labor has been expended upon the library of this prison, the past year. A new catalogue has been made, scattered books gathered up, the whole library assorted and cleaned and nearly one-half of the books repaired and re-bound.

The State appropriation of one hundred and fifty dollars has been expended, adding one hundred and seventy-seven volumes to the library. It is very desirable that these yearly appropriations should be continued by the State, for our library cannot be kept in a good condition without them.

It has been the practice here in time past to bury the dead without any religious service. But your Board has now given orders in the case of each death, for the company to which the deceased belongs to be marched to the chapel, where a brief religious service is observed, after which the chaplain accompanies the corpse to the grave. I think this practice is having a good effect on the prisoners; it is a recognition of their manhood, as well as of their immortality, and leads them to feel that they are not lost beyond the reach of hope.

There is much labor connected with the correspondence of prisoners, but it gives me a good opportunity to become acquainted with each one, and with their social relations and habits, and thus opens a wide door for usefulness. I have examined and mailed twelve hundred and eighty convict letters the past year, going to their friends, and more than that number that have come from friends. Over four hundred of this number I have composed and written with my own hand, for such as could not write for themselves.

Our evening school has been prosecuted as efficiently as it can be under the present system, but if some change in our mode of teaching could be devised, without interfering too much with other departments, it would be a great benefit. Under the present system, the most faithful teacher cannot give, on an average, more than seven minutes a week to each pupil. This is a help to those who are so far advanced as to need but hints, or a little assistance on difficult points. But what can new beginners do under seven minutes tuition per week, or about six hours per year? If the whole school could be properly classified, and each class passed to a room furnished with the needful apparatus, and spend one hour each day, or even one hour each week, under a well qualified teacher, a school would be of some use to them. The inspiration of the class-room, and the laudable rivalry excited in different minds, would give impulse to both teachers and scholars. I hope this or some other system will command the attention of your honorable body. Allow me also to call your attention to the suggestion in the teacher's report, appended, in regard to lighting the prison hall. It is impossible, in most of the cells, to see to read by the present lights. The profit and pleasure that might be derived from books in the long winter evenings, is almost wholly lost for the want of sufficient lights, and the evil it seems to me can and might be remedied. A copy of the teacher's report, and the usual tables will be found appended. Allow me, in closing this report, to extend my sincere thanks for the marked respect and kindness I have received from your honorable board, and to add that my official intercourse with my fellow officers has been pleasant and agreeable.

Respectfully yours,

J. A. CANFIELD, Chaplain.

TEACHERS' REPORT.

To the Rev. J. A. Canfield, Chaplain Clinton Prison.

In accordance to law and usage, we would hereby respectfully submit for your consideration and approval, a statement of our labor as teachers in this prison for the fiscal year, ending with the 30th September, 1864 :

It will be recollected that one of the present teachers has only been in charge of a portion of the school for the four preceding months, and consequently cannot give as full and detailed an account of this department of the school as might be wished for in this report, but would refer you to his consolidated report for June, July, August and September.

We have had under instruction during the last year, as our books indicate, two hundred and thirty pupils. At the present time, however, the number receiving instruction is reduced to one hundred and twenty-four. While there are a few advanced scholars, the larger part of the convicts are unlearned, quite a number of whom, until very recently, could neither read nor spell, but we are happy to be now able to say that all can read very well, and many write their own signatures. It has been our endeavor, as soon as possible, to place in the hands of each scholar a slate and pencil, in order that they might have the advantage of learning to write and cipher.

Of the whole number of scholars, those learning to read and spell,	57
Learning to read and write.....	26
Studying arithmetic.....	41

Our mode of instruction is about the same as has been already explained in previous reports, with perhaps the exception that we now have our school more systematized, and better regulated as to books.

In conclusion, we would most respectfully suggest that means be adapted for the lighting of the hall, so that each convict can read until eight or nine o'clock each evening.

Respectfully yours,
